[From the "INSURANCE MONITOR," March 10th, 1869.]

THE NATIONAL.

Life Insurance Company,

OF NEW YORK

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the remarkably strong statement made by that sound and well-conducted institution, the National Life Insurance Company, which may be found in their advertisement in another column. The Company has been able to declare dividends this year, after making ample reserves to meet any possible contingencies, of fifty per cent, on life policies, and of thirty five per cent, on endowment policies. One of the excellent characteristics of the National Life is that of non forfeiture of all policies on the principle of non forfeiture adopted by the Massachusetts companies.

[The "INSURANCE SPECTATOR" says of the NATIONAL.]

"In all its plans we observe a positive and unmistakable evidence of an intention to extend to policyholders the utmost liberality consistent with safety. Its ratio of reserved assets to actual liabilities, is larger than that of some of the oldest companies. It aims to get business without resorting to false pretenses. It regards QUALITY AND PRUDENCE more than mere volume of business; thus, it has been enabled to avoid many of the extravagances which are too often the condition of a sudden and rapid growth, and to pay dividends to its policy-holders equal to that of the largest and most successful companies—never having paid less than FIFTY PER CENT. on Life Policies and THIRTY-FIVE PER CENT. on Endowment and it has always PAID IT, and not merely DECLARED IT. We repeat then, emphatically, that the NATIONAL is a good Company to insure in—SOUND, ECONOMICAL AND LIBERAL."

HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT

Is a beverage particularly adapted to persons of weak and debilitated constitutions, and those suffering from dyspepsia, loss of appetite, general debility, etc. IT TAKES THE PLACE OF AND IS SUPERIOR to ale, porter, and spirituous liquors in all cases where nourishing beverages and tonics are needed. Eminent physicians of New York, say: "We have used HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT in practice and the results have been such as to fully justify the claims made for it; we feel convinced that it is destined to supply a want long felt."

EVENING DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK ITEMS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.

The Hoboken Meadows were overflowed yesterday and about 100 houses were surrounded by water. Two buildings in Hudson and Jersey City were blown down yesterday. Five unfinished buildings in Brooklyn and two dwellings were also blown down. No one was hurt. Loss $10,000.

Morris' faro establishment on Broadway was entered by burglars Saturday night and $800 stolen therefrom.

Officer Sutton was shot by a rowdy last night while arresting one of the latter's companions.

Peter Reynolds a notorious political rough, was fatally stabbed by Patrick Munday, yesterday, in a drunken brawl. Reynolds was arrested.

The passengers on the 6.20 p. m. train last evening, from Jersey City to Newark, experienced a novel but unpleasant sensation: The gale blew with such violence over the flats that the windows were broken and the lights blown out and the cars rocked so fearfully that they were in constant danger of being capsized from the track. Nearly 600 passengers were on board, and only reached Newark after a two hours' battle with the element.

The mate of brig Andrews was lost overboard and drowned during the gale, while making the vessel fast to the dock. A deck hand was also fatally crushed.

MEXICO.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.

A letter from the City of Mexico dated Dec. 19, says that there is a serious crisis in the affairs of the Mexican Republic, and there would be a very serious revolution if the leaders of the opposition to Juarez should unite. The opposition chiefs, however, lack money and influence to concentrate their energies, and Juarez and his Cabinet are working with great energy to put down all opponents. Congress will not indorse Romero's financial policy, but will insist upon a reduction of expenses and even upon a national reduction of the customs duties on imported goods, and probably also on a general amnesty to political offenders. The protection given by Juarez to Evangelical Christians in Puebla and other places, has excited the animosity of the old church party and their priests, and the present disorders are engendered by them.

Another Mexican letter states that a small congregation of Christians who worshipped in Cocoma in Puebla were mobbed by a large crowd of Catholics, their bibles, tracts and other effects were taken into the street and torn in pieces and burned. The few Christians present were shot and stoned and beaten, and two are not expected to live. The police and military were called out and partially dispersed the mob, killing one of the latter.

BOSTON MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.

The new municipal Government of Boston organized to-day, Newton Talbot being chosen chairman of the Board of Aldermen and I. M. Ingalls, President of the Common Council. Mayor Shurtleff's inaugural address is of great length, alluding in detail to all the important interests of the city. The appropriations authorized for improvements, amount to $6,904,00. To meet the interest on the gross debt and the amount required to be raised by a tax on the capital of said debt for for the debt sinking fund will entail a taxation in round numbers of upwards of $2,000,000. Total valuation of the city of Boston, including Dorchester $570,000,000.

THE STORM ABROAD.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.

The storm yesterday washed away the track of the Baltimore Railroad on both sides of Long Bridge at Bush River, causing delay in trains running regularly. The storm was most furious throughout the day. Waves washed over bridges at Bush and Gunpowder.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 3.

A violent snowstorm set in here last evening. About six inches of snow has fallen.—The wind is from the north and blowing very hard.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.

The New York and Philadelphia last night trains arrived 15 minutes past 9 o'clock this morning, four hours after the schedule time, owing to the heavy storm which washed away part of the railroad track over Bush River crossing, between Philadelphia and Baltimore, trains being necessarily detained at that point until the track could be repaired. Considerable damage was done in this city and neighborhood by rain and wind yesterday.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 3.

A sudden rise in the Blackstone and Mill rivers at Woonsocket last night caused a flood that is doing much damage. The track of the Air Line railroad is three feet under water, but the train went out. Two small bridges on the Milford and Woonsocket railroad were carried away. The Bristol railroad was washed so as to interrupt the morning trains, but is all right now.

BUFFALO, Jan. 3.

Yesterday at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the weather cleared up with a brilliant rainbow, and shortly after dark the wind hauled from the north-west and gradually increased to a terrific gale. The storm continues with a blinding snow, and the track of the Niagara Falls Branch of the New York Central railroad has been torn up and the trestle work carried away for almost the entire distance from the Round House to the International Ferry.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 3.

No reports have been received of disasters in the bay with the exception of one pungy a short distance from the city, from which the crew were rescued by a passing vessel.

The delay of trains and mails last evening hence to Philadelphia, was caused by the high water and the washing of the banks at each end of the Long Bridge over the Gunpowder River. The water was higher there than ever before known. Trains were kept back as a matter of precaution.

CABLE NEWS

Rome, Jan. 3. The Ecumenical Council held their final session at the Cathedral of St. Peter on Saturday. Efforts had been made to improve the acoustic properties of the hall but without much success. The sessions will be held at the Quirinal.

The Biggest man in the Senate wants to go home. This is Mr. Pratt, of Indiana. He is uneasy at Washington—which is a prime evidence that he is in his right mind—and he says that he is useless to his constituency in the Senate because he is too old to begin a life of political scheming. How bucolic they are in Indiana to elect a man to the Senate with a constitutional aversion to political scheming.

THE ECUMENICAL COUNCIL. Mr. Russell writes from Rome to the London Times, that there is a serious division of opinion among the members of the Ecumenical Council. He says:

"Rome has been for the last week in a paroxysm of deep, though noiseless flutter, owing to an intense but occult contest that has been waged in a skirmish-like fashion between the two great parties into which the Council divides itself. I am quite aware that if I talk of parties existing among the Bishops, I risk being put down by many persons as one who is dealing in a hoax, if not a malicious invention. The exoteric phrase current in Rome, especially within earshot of outer barbarians, is that all the world is of one mind, and no one, least of all the Pope, is in the least minded to introduce any question or proposition that can in the slightest degree give rise to differences of opinion. I venture unhesitatingly to deny that the Episcopal flock assembled now in Rome is at all such a happy family; and I will go further and affirm that, behind the screen of Christian decorum and harmony which has been exhibited before the inexperienced eyes of trustful strangers, there has been going on in the last week as much active intrigue, counter moves, and cunning device as would gratify the soul of the craftiest electioneering agent."

The matter which causes all this disturbance is the dogma of infallibility which the Pope is determined to impose upon the Council. Mr. Russell gives the following account of the opposition that has been developed:

"There is no question that the tone and temper exhibited by many Bishops—especially French and Germans—since their arrival here, produced much sensation on those who are of influence in the Court of Rome. Such a spirit of unwillingness to subscribe the intended dogma was not expected, and took the Vatican by surprise. The Bishops generally, according to languages, have been holding a series of private meetings to concert their action. It is, of course, very difficult to know what has passed in these conferences, but I have good authority for affirming that the Hungarian Bishops have unanimously shown themselves averse from the dogma; that the Bohemians as a body are the same; that Cardinal Schwarzenberg with singular boldness has openly pronounced his determination to oppose it; that a number of German Bishops side with him in feeling, though it is not yet clear what particular line of action they will elect; and that the French Bishops, stirred by Monseigneur Dulanloup and Monseigneur Darboy, have been concerting among themselves in repeated conferences, which have brought to light a disposition on their part to resent Papal encroachments which at one time could hardly have been anticipated."

The bull of the Pope, too, for regulating the proceedings of the Council, have created great dissatisfaction, as it deprives the members of any share in the direction of affairs. They find themselves bound hand and foot by the regulations.

THE CRY IS, STILL THEY COME. Every letter from Cuba informs us of fresh arrivals of troops from Spain. Since October over seventeen thousand fighting men have landed on Cuban soil, and they are not done coming yet. Many of the recent importations have come to Cuba to stay—carpet-baggers, in fact, under the more euphonious title of Spanish volunteers. Notwithstanding these accessions the Cubans are slowly gaining ground. Valmaseda still cries for help in the in the Eastern Department, and the hurried manner in which the Captain General is forwarding troops to that locality evidently shows that the that the commanding General in the East is having a hard road to travel.

SAD FATE OF A "CARDIFF GIANT." The "Onondaga Giant" has been extensively advertised to appear in Chicago for exhibition, but reached that city, unfortunately, in a rather dilapidated condition, on Saturday.—The "petrified individual" according to the Tribune, committed suicide during his transportation to Chicago, for, upon the box being opened at the Central Depot, it was discovered that his head had parted company with his trunk, and the "body was otherwise badly mutilated. A large number of small boys gathered about the defunct image, and feeling a desire to possess themselves of "relics," carried away a large number of pieces. The "giant" proved to be nothing but plaster of Paris. It was one of the duplicates which Barnum had made as a counter-speculation after being refused a share in the original hoax.

Delaware Republican papers are again alluding to the extraordinary character of the State Tax law. It levies special taxes on banks, insurance companies, canals, railroads, &c., and then, to gather everything generally, provides for a tax of one-fourth of one per cent. upon the cash value of the capital stock of any corporation chartered by this or any other State, "lawfully doing business in this State." TUESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1870.

THE AUBURN TEMPERANCE CONVENTION—WHAT IT MAY DO.

In another column we publish the call of the State Central Temperance Committee for the Convention to be held in Auburn on the 27th and 28th of January. We heartily comply with the request of the Secretary to give the call our sanction, we trust that the attendance will be large; that the temperance people all over the State will come together for conference upon a question of vital importance to the prosperity of the country.

But we do not satisfy ourselves with a simple indorsement of this Convention. We desire to call the attention of our readers most particularly to the influence which this Convention may have, and to the importance of making it so far as possible a representative Convention of the many thousand temperance men in this State. We desire also to warn them that the attempt has already commenced, long before any political movements have been contemplated looking to the next campaign, without any cause or prospect of complaint, to organize a distinct temperance party to distract the Republicans.

While we cordially hail every movement, be it in the shape of general Convention or local organizations, to forward the temperance cause and to uphold prohibition, we have good reason for distrusting the object of many who will go into the Convention. The committee is composed in good part of men who last year engineered the third party campaign, and who, in face of the instructive lesson then received to the contrary, now openly disclose their intention to pursue the same course again at all hazards. To this end they have established an organ, and so far as possible they will no doubt attempt to make the temperance Convention subserve the object of their party more than their cause.

Should they be allowed to do this? The arguments against the benefit of such course are plenty, and its utter hopelessness is almost too well established by past experience to deserve candid notice. See what are the facts. We suppose there are about 20,000 voters in this State who belong to some of the temperance organizations properly entitled to representation in the State Temperance Convention. Last year a Convention was held in Richmond which recommended an independent political party. A subsequent meeting was held in Portland, which carried that idea into action. A candidate was put in the field under the most favorable circumstances—Gov. Chamberlain had received unusual honors, and many were desirous to honor others, there were local dissatisfactions, which always attend a long term of public service, there was great division and complaint in our party upon the subject of capital punishment. With all these developments, mark the result. The candidate of the new party received less than five thousand votes, and of these it cannot be claimed that three thousand were cast upon the distinct issue of temperance.

The conclusion is quite evident. The Conventions at Richmond and Portland misrepresented the sentiment of the twenty thousand men who labor in the temperance organizations—less than one-sixth of whom bolted the Republican nomination—not to say anything of the large class of temperance men not enrolled in the various societies. We therefore desire that the temperance people should be fully and fairly represented in this coming Convention that it may not be used for the behoof of a few restless leaders. Let temperance men everywhere have a voice in the meetings that the result may not go out to the world in the character of a deception. In short, we want the voice of the temperance men and women of Maine, and not the voice of faction, to speak through these Conventions, and then we have faith that the work will be good.

This being accomplished, there are two or three suggestions that may not be deemed out of place. We would like to see a genuine working temperance Convention, and such an one can do a great deal of good. It should first take in hand the enforcement of the law in conjunction with the influence of moral suasion. And this includes all. It does not mean exclusion from political action. On the contrary, it means earnest work in the Republican party in order to shape its action to the true and proper sentiment of the vast majority of its members. It means a thorough examination into the effect of the liquor law in various sections, and co-operation with faithful officers in its enforcement, and the exposure of unfaithful ones where the law is insulted in its neglect. In this way the temperance Convention may do much good, and we wish them the amplest success.

It appears that the French Emperor is not only afraid of free telegraph dispatches as a new species of free speech, but these being charged with that weakness, he is equally afraid to acknowledge it. He directs the French Cable Company to deny the intimation in President Grant's Message, that their cable is subject to the surveillance of the Government. We say he directs the Company to deny it, because had they had any ground for the denial they could have denied it many days before they did. The denial comes now because the French Emperor fears that his inherent despotism will be widely exposed.—But the denial is false. The dispatches by that cable may, as it says, pass French territory without inspection; but this is merely for effect and for the time. When the Emperor's object is gained, spies can any time be put upon the various lines diverging from the Cable, and according to the charter of the company, every dispatch is subject to the will of the Government officials. Afraid of his own people afraid of the opinion of the world, afraid of every innovation and improvement, afraid to be a tyrant and yet afraid to be liberal, the power of Napoleon seems more precarious every day.

In a recent address in New York Mr. Greeley stated at length that we could make pig iron of Iron with as few days' work in this country as elsewhere, "but not for as few dollars, because twenty days' work here cost $30 to $40, while in Europe the cost $10 to $20, and a ton of Pig Iron is simply twenty days' work in a concrete form. He added that we could make Iron as cheap as Europe does, by reducing wages to her standard, but wouldn't do it."

Now this illustrates the folly of the protective policy as a principle. Mr. Greeley says that we cannot make Iron as cheaply as they can in Europe. We do not believe this as a whole. But suppose it to be true: why not abandon a branch of industry that cannot now sustain itself, and never can so long as wages are better here than elsewhere, and prosecute otherwise that are naturally profitable. Why add materially to the price of iron or any other article for the mere confessed purpose of sustaining an industry that will never pay without artificial prices? Or if Mr. Greeley's principle is right, why not carry it to its natural result, and place a tax of fifty cents or a dollar on tea, so that we can compete with China? Why not legislate that the United States shall not import anything?

Every country has its peculiar advantages in productions, and legislation can never more than temporarily change the course of nature; where it does, the people have to pay the expense. The world would be much better off could free trade be made reciprocal and universal. Protection is arbitrary, and the idea of the American tariff must be and is one of necessity and purely with a view to revenue.

We have been led to believe by the earnestness and extra zeal with which the Spanish authorities have circulated reports in relation to surrenders of the Cubans in all parts of the Island, that the Cuban cause is much stronger than our people have supposed. If half the surrenders reported were true, Cuba would be depopulated except Spanish garrisons. But the attempt to bolster up a cause by lying has reached its height in the report sent out by Spanish agents that the Cuban Junta in New York had sent out a circular advising the Cubans to surrender to Spain as a body, as their cause is hopeless. The Cubans in Washington and New York publish in indignant denials of such an idea, and justly denounce the infamy of a cause that resorts to such miserable tricks. We believe the fraud will cause a wholesome reaction in favor of Cuba that will astonish the Dons who haven't yet waked up to the knowledge that a revolution in Cuba has existed more than a year and is rapidly but healthily "considering."

Truly, the power of rum is great. A story now comes to us from New York that Mrs. Frances Norris, a female temperance lecturer, after delivering a lecture in Astoria N. Y. on the night of the 28th ult. was refused lodging in Wilson's Hotel of that place. One George Lang a constable of the peace, offered to escort her to a house, and being soon join'd by another ruffian, both outrageously as saulted and robbed her. She managed to escape.—Upon entering complaints against the ruffians all the sheriffs and then deputies there declined to arrest the criminals alleging that their lives would be jeopardized by so doing at the hands of the rest of the gang to which Lang and his confederate belong. The District Attorney will have to apply to officers outside of the County. Rum and law never agree anywhere.

Democratic Georgians are rather confirming the wisdom of the President and Congress in drawing the reins a little tighter.—They show their teeth on every occasion and have threatened chastisement of the ugly sort upon Governor Bullock. For his agency in the recent Congressional action. They may as well learn that further resistance is worse than useless. All that is required is good faith in accepting the reconstruction acts.

The Democrats of a Senatorial District in Ohio nominate a negro for election. The District happens to be one where Democrats never had a hope of success; or they never would have done it. But it illustrates both the established fact of the capability and the right of the negro to serve in public places, and the duplicity of the Democratic leaders.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

The Assistant Treasurer in Boston has already disbursed over $600,000 in gold on account of January interest.

Gov. Ashley has written to President Grant demanding an investigation into his public and private acts.

Mrs. Stanton and her children have gone to Ohio. There is no doubt that the sum of $100,000 will be raised for them, Boston contributing $20,000.

It is somewhat strange that the papers have made so brief mention of the fact that Frederick S. Cozzens, the author of the "Sparrowgrass Papers," died last week.

Hon. Lewis B. Woodruff, the newly appointed United States Circuit Judge, will hold the Circuit Court in Albany to dispose of the business on the calendars.

The Republican State Committee of Maryland, at resuming the work of organization in that State, have authorized a sort of sub-committee of one or two colored men in each county, with whom consultations are to be held.

Collector Casey, of New Orleans, has directed that all persons holding positions in the Custom House under his control must furnish heads of departments where they are employed certificates of their standing with the Republican party.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says it is obvious that the Democratic party has no leader either in the Senate or House, and that Kentucky has a greater amount of ability in Congress now than any of the States of equal representation.

Mr. Beecher is for the instant recognition of the belligerency of the Cubans, and he thinks that if the President delays or hesitates in this matter, he not only suits his own reputation, but that of the Republic of which he has been such a good soldier.

Reliable advices from Texas state that the Conservatives, maddened by the Republican victory, declare that they will return their defeated candidate, Gov. Jack. Hamilton to the Senate, and they will succeed unless members of the Legislature are required to take the test oath.

General Ames and General Reynolds have advised the President of the election of the Republican candidates for Governor in Mississippi and Texas. The President remarked to Judge Dent a few days ago that he felt sure Mississippi, Texas and Virginia would be States in the Union in a short time, and then the entire nation would go to work and settle up our national debt.

A number of Shakers attended the recent session of the Woman's Suffrage Convention in Concord N. H. The Shakers can very consistently countenance the movement for they favor in the abstract in connection of the human species, and the woman's sphere doctrine tends the same way.

The Vicksburg (Miss.) Times thinks it compliments Senator Saulsbury of Delaware by alluding to him as the "last of the Mohicans," and saying "Were it not that all his eloquence is wasted in attacking, irregular conclusions, and had he the advantage of addressing a more evenly-balanced legislative assembly, he might wield considerable influence. As it is, he is now merely the Senatorial exponent of the Lost Cause, and a vivid reminder of ante bellum days."

General George A. Custar was dined in Detroit on Monday week by the members of the Audubon Club, to whose museum he has made many valuable additions. Speeches were made by General Custar, Governor Baldwin, General R. A. Alger, and several prominent citizens of Detroit, members of the Club.

Speaking of the war, Ex-Secretary Stanton once said "The hand of an overruling Providence was with us through all—and now here was his presence more manifest than in the preservation of the thousands of men who were sent down South by sea in transports ill-adapted to the service."

"The Democrats' of Mississippi appear to be in a low state of mind the blandishments bestowed by them upon "niggers" not having met with the success which was expected. The Meridian Mercury, in its agony and humiliation, declares that the members of the party have "dragged the dignity of the Caucasian nature in the dirt," and all for nothing!—have "stooped to the point of degradation," and all in vain—have tried to establish "a friendly relationship with slaves and mentals," and have signally failed. This surely goes to prove, if it proves anything, that "the signs and symbols" are cheaper and shrewder than white "Democrats," while we most hardly point out that it plays the dance with "the Caucasian nature," which does n't seem to be so profligately inside after all.

MRS. STOWE ON THE DEFENSIVE.

The following is the introductory chapter of Mrs. H. B. Stowe's long-promised book on the Byron matter, which will appear a volume of 480 pages, on Saturday, January 8. It is as will be seen, a very earnest defence of Mrs. Stowe herself and does not anticipate the argument or the evidence to follow it.

The interval since my publication of "The True Story of Lady Byron's Life" has been one of stormy discussion and of much excitement.

I have not the gift, if necessary, to disturb my spirit and confuse my sense of right by even an attempt at refuting the many abusive articles that both here and in England have followed that disclosure. Friends have undertaken the task for me giving me from time to time the substance of anything really worthy of attention which came to the surface in the tumult.

It appeared to me essential that the first statement should be my own, upon which there would be a possibility of speaking to any purpose. Now, which all would seem to have spoken who could speak, and it is to be hoped have said the utmost they can say. It seems appropriate, therefore, and calmly as that is possible, to what I have to say in reply.

And first, why have I made this disclosure at all?

I offer no reason briefly to those I cannot explain and hardly to make it.

I made it in defence of a beloved friend, whose memory was stained with the abuse of the civilized world charging with the most repulsive crimes of which I really knew her innocent.

I claim and shall prove that Lady Byron published to the world the first and direct attack against Lord Byron's character, and her own. In the time and reasoning to this charge against her grave I claim and shall prove that it was not I who first raised up this controversy, but I who first gave the true solution of it. I shall show why she did it, and who was responsible for driving her into that fatal path of attacking, the dead. In what it appears to me ought to have been made by others.

I claim that these facts were given to me unguarded by my private intercourse with her, expressed in simple and short phrases, which would not seem to any stranger to mean what they did. Only brother and sisters in their family circle, or the world to think of the literary efforts? I ask my mind with the secrets of her bosom, it had been obliged to tell a story so cruel, because false, as that would have given no rest from slander.—I ask in vain with full knowledge of the circumstances and intimate relations of Lady Byron and myself, that I could have published such a disclosure for her, and not one in all the circle of her friends could have found a word to excuse or palliate the offensive volume in relation to Lord Byron.

I submit that a reference to my private character, if it was called in question, would be entirely out of place. It was entirely against my own wishes that I was induced to publish the first statement, and that only after I had been for years the object of attack in every way that malice could devise. The world knows my humble position with the great world, and were not at all. I saw the cruel slanders crystallizing into history in many forms, which knew but few, and only those who form their knowledge of events and principles from views as partial and prejudiced as they well could be. I felt that I was living in the midst of a lie, full of love, which was killing me in the tomb—a conviction in which I had confided to the faithful friend who had given me and not one in all the circle could excuse an

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS

WEEK OF PRAYER The first week in January is devoted to united prayer by the churches in this country and throughout the world As Dr Cuyler says —"It furnishes a genuine 'Ecumenical Council'—not convoked by one man in a single city but gathered by mutual agreement in ten thousand places at the same time, and for the same holy purpose." The notice published yesterday morning was liable to mislead, inasmuch as it intended to convey the idea that the only meetings to be held during the week were to be held at but three churches on Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings, whereas a meeting will be held every evening this week at the Union Street Methodist Church, and at the Second Baptist Church every afternoon and evening during the week, in addition to those named yesterday

Prayer meeting this afternoon and evening at the Second Baptist Church, Columbia street, and this evening at the First Parish Church, Broadway and the Union Street Methodist Church Chief topics For Christian homes, for parents and children, for employees and employed, for young men and women in cities, for orphans and homeless children, for the abandoned classes

—We do not know how many lessons our citizens will require to have before they will learn that they have no right to hazard their property and that of their neighbors, put the city in jeopardy and the Fire Department to hard work and expense by putting that terrible incendiary, lime, within reach of tide water Every little while our citizens are called out at dead of night to subdue a lime fire caused by a tide a few inches higher than the usual course, coming in contact with lime which has, not carelessly, but recklessly been left in reach of its combustive element Will men never learn to better provide for the protection of their own property and the safety and security of the city? If not the strong arm of the law should be interposed to oblige them to do it Truly we cannot afford any more such risks

—In the City Council last evening, a communication was received from the President and Directors of the Winterport Railroad Company, asking the City to subscribe $50 000 to the stock of said Company and that the question be submitted to a vote of the citizens of this City, on or before the 20th instant The communication was referred to a special committee, consisting of Aldermen Ricker and Whitney, and Councilmen Drummond, Roberts and Strickland, with instructions to report at a special meeting in one week from to-day.

THE ANGEL.

With a winning voice and a gentle tread,
An Angel sped on her path away,
She paused to weep o er the shrouded dead,
And sweetly smiled on the young and gay

She'd a gift of balm for the wounded heart,
A whisper of hope for the hopeless one
She checked the tears that in anguish start.
And taught the youth how life s crowns are won

O beautiful Angel' be to us
An influence making our lives sublime,
And the blessings of many shall be thus
Our gathered sheaves of the harvest time

A PERSONAL LETTER.

UMBAGOG LAKE, N A, Dec 25, 1869

J H LYNDE—Dear Sir

How often through life have I groaned in distress
While sorest temptations have tried me,
And eagerly sought, from the pulpit and press
Some safe code of morals to guide me —

But somehow, my "darlingest" sin, in the creeds
To which humble christians are looking,
Is reckoned as one of the scaliest deeds —
And that is, a habit of hooking

It was not at the church, nor the Sabbath-school
So scaly a habit was taught me,
But down by the mill, in the silver pool,
Where, rich was the harvest it brought me

But while, at my hooking, I gather my pelf,
And garner my treasures for winter,
My surplus I share, (after serving myself)
With the orphan, the priest and the printer —

At my feast, the poor orphan, while helpless and young,
Ever plays the most prominent part in't,
While the simple "God bless you' that falls from the tongue
Bubbles forth with the whole of his heart in t —

But the prayers of my parson I'm free to confess,
Are oftentimes sadly provoking,
For, in praying Our Father my bounties to bless
He prays Him to keep me from hooking —

And bootless alike are the tears I may shed,
With my proffers to donate him double —
I find him too fat, or too daintily fed
To sympathize deep in my trouble —

Despairing, I turn from my parson away
To my printer, so lean and so lank,
"That the world" (as sweet Willie of Avon would say)
"Is too wide for so shrunken a shank'

And mayhap, some piscivorous knight of the type,
With his love of luxurious cooking,
May consent, for my trout, when his hunger is ripe,
To come out in defence of my hooking —

They tell me no qualms ever trouble his head,
Whatever hard truths he may utter,
Endorsing the wickedest knave for his bread,
Or the holiest saint for his butter'—

Accept then my fishes, once proffered my priest,
And, when at the sound of the gavel
You call off your craftsmen to join in your feast,
Don t fail to remember your Devil.—

Fraternally yours
DANIEL BARKER

A CHRISTMAS STORY—A REAL INCIDENT

BY GRACE GREENWOOD

On a Christmas night, some years ago there were gathered about the wide fireplace of a large New England kitchen, a happy family circle, consisting of a well to-do farmer, who was a magistrate—known far and wide as 'Squire Percival"—his comely wife, and two fair daughters, a niece, and last, but not least a son just home from Yale for the holidays.

The night without was seasonably cold, and brilliant with moonlight and starlight. The large stone farmhouse stood on the brow of a hill behind a protecting line of tall pine trees, the only green in the wide landscape The steep hillside and the valley beneath were heavily blanketed with snow

The early part of the evening had passed merrily with games, jests and songs. But for an hour or two the conversation had taken a drift into the realm of the supernatural. One ghost had succeeded another till as the "witching time of night" approached, and the fire burned low, the circle instinctively drew closer together, with thrills and shudders of strange spiritual dread, which is yet akin to the keenest pleasure—an awesome joy, an exquisite terror. The solemn sighing of the winds among the trees, heard in the pauses of ghostly recitals added its wonderous, weird effect to the theme

Just as young Percival had cocluded a wild German legend, which he declared "splendid stuff for dreams," the outside door was heard to open suddenly. All looked around more or less fearfully, to see standing on the threshold the slight form of a fair young woman, clad in white, and looking strangely pure, and cold, and luminous, like incarnated moonlight.

"With the glide of a spirit" she came forward. Her feet were quite bare, and her arms were drooping wearily Masses of fair hair fell over her shoulders, but her eyes were dark and fixed with a melancholy stare Her lips were slightly parted and almost colorless She came into the circle about the hearth and there paused, standing utterly motionless—a beautiful appalling figure.

For a moment all the startled group remained as silent as that strange visitor—then one young girl caught her breath in a hysterical scream, which was instantly answered by a cry from the lips of "the woman in white," into whose blank eyes rushed a wild, keen light. She gazed about her in terror and bewilderment then glanced down upon herself, and sank cowering upon the floor covering her face with her hands, and giving way to childish paroxysms of weeping

The farmer's wife, a woman of rare sense and presence of mind, at once divined the truth.

'She is a sleep walker,' she said "She must be half dead with the cold. Girls, bring some wrappings!"

Immediately all was bustle The farmer and his son discreetly vanished from the scene and the kind mother, daughter and niece devoted themselves to their bewildered charge, who still wept and sobbed under their kind ministrations, but declared that she felt no cold and no pain, though her delicate feet were actually bleeding from her long walk up the icy hillside, and over the crusted snow

After having been tenderly put to bed, however, she became sufficiently composed to reply to the few questions which had been put to her She said that she was Lucy Ellett, the niece of the village physician, that she had lately been taken from school on account of nervousness and sent to him for medical treatment, but that homesickness and loneliness had made her worse. She had occasionally walked in her sleep before, but only about the house and grounds at home, and on summer moonlight nights. "I think the moon bewitches me," she said, smiling through her tears That night she had, before going to bed, looked across the little valley to the pleasant house on the hill, watching the cheerful Christmas lights gleaming through the pine trees and longed to be one of the happy party there, though she was a stranger to all

She had cried herself to sleep, she said, and that was all she knew of her mysterious tramp over snow and stones and ice. Not a memory, or a thought could she recall till the moment when she found herself standing on that hearth, in her night dress, with so many wondering eyes fixed uppo her

"O dear' what do you think of me? What can you think of me now?" she moaned.

"Never mind what we think of you, my poor child" said the good motherly Mrs. Percival "we love you already, so drink this nice ginger tea and go to sleep."

The "poor child" got a little natural sleep and in the morning appeared somewhat less ghostly than the apparition of Christmas night. But she was still very pale, with a playfully shy grieved look. She was suffering less from exposure than was expected, but more from the nervous shock of the night before, and by the advice of her uncle who had been summoned, consented to remain with her new friends for a few days.

Young John Percival was hospitable kind to the invalid guest, not seeming to perceive that she shrank from his attention in a sensitive, disquieted way Yet when his eye was not on her she was observed to study his face with a peculiar inquiring expression. She could not remember having seen that face at the fearful moment of her awakening, and she hoped he had not been a witness of that walking trance, and she regarded him with absolute horror.

Finally, on the last day of her visit, finding herself alone with him for a moment, under a desperate impulse, she asked, "Did you, too, see me that night?"

He was disturbed by the tremble in the voice and the wistful look in the dark eyes, but he answered honestly: "I cannot deny that I did see you."

[illegible]

that night as a lovely walking flesh and blood reality

I never heard of Lucy Ellet "revisiting the glimpses of the moon" as a somnambulist after this but I heard that on another Christmas night she stood on the hearth of the old farmhouse, dress all in white, in the midst of the same family circle, and she gazed about her and said "I am afraid I am walking in my sleep again and then put up her hands in a pretty deprecating way and added, But if I am John don t wake me '

Read the following certificate from Deacon JOHN HODGKINS of Jefferson Me

SOUTH JEFFERSON ME

In May 1866 our agent met with Deacon John Hodgkins of South Jefferson Me who related the following astonishing cure effected by "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment He said —Some time ago [illegible] was taken sick with a serious lung difficulty which threatened to end in quick consumption We immediately summoned our family physician who attended him faithfully for about four weeks during which time he gradually grew weaker Becoming very much alarmed about himself and being satisfied that he was growing worse all the time he finally refused to take any more medicine from the physician and expressed a wish to try Johnson s Anodyne Liniment I immediately told the physician expecting that he would object to his using it but he did not He said Let him try it it won t hurt him and may do him some good

He did try it and continued its use some time taking it inwardly and bathing the chest and lungs outwardly Very soon he began to improve gradually gaining strength until at last we had the satisfaction of knowing that the foundation of his disease was broken up

My son is alive and well to day possessing a strong and vigorous constitution which we attribute to God to the use of Johnson s Anodyne Liniment I can further say that I never allow myself to get out of the article, and that in my judgment it is the best family medicine in the world

Signed
JOHN HODGKINS

Deacon Hodgkins is one of the most respectable [illegible] community in which he lives and made and signed this statement in presence of witnesses We invite any who are interested to correspond with him in regard to the above

KIDNEY COMPLAINT

This most distressing disease has become alarmingly prevalent within a few years and is proving a destroyer of human happiness and in some cases of human life It is not confined to old or middle aged it is quite as frequent among children and young people as any other class One of the most effectual remedies known for this dreadful complaint is Johnson s Anodyne Liniment it has never failed as yet as we have abundant proof to show We refer with pleasure to the following letter from H D Hutchins Esq a gentleman and a merchant well and thoroughly known in Fryeburg Oxford County Me where he resides

FRYEBURG March 8 1867

MESSRS I S JOHNSON & Co

Dear Sirs —In the fall of 1856 I was attacked with a violent pain through my back and kidneys, which laid me up for more than a year I consulted the best physicians in the county and Portland. Some pronounced it kidney some spinal disease After being under their treatment six or eight months and receiving no particular benefit I was advised by a friend to try your liniment On taking part of a bottle it brought away, in my water something similar to the filings of steel, which relieved me in part and by continuing to take it for three months or more I was completely cured I most heartily recommend it as the best family medicine I ever used With pleasure I send you the foregoing statement You can make such use of it as you deem proper

Respectfully yours,
H D HUTCHINS

The foregoing statement may be relied upon, not only as coming from a gentleman who thoroughly understands his own case but one who has sold and watched the operation of our liniment for more than twenty five years

SPINAL DISEASES CAN BE CURED

Don't fail to read the following statement of facts —

Remarkable cure of a most obstinate case of spinal difficulty effected by Johnson s Anodyne Liniment

Mr Farrington, now of the firm of Hutchinson & Farrington Burnham Waldo County M was for four years, unable to do a day s work, or attend to business of any kind, during which time he suffered from those excruciating pains along the spine which rarely fail to accompany the spinal disease Having suffered long and tried many remedies without receiving much benefit he began to despair of ever being able to attend to the most simple duties of life At length being advised he tried Johnson s Anodyne Liniment and very soon saw that he was being benefitted which induced him to persevere in its use until he had used fifteen bottles which has restored him to health so as to enable him to begin life anew The writer of this saw Mr Farrington als[illegible] March 1 1867 and received the facts as above stated with permission to publish If there are persons who would like to make particular inquiries of Mr Farrington in relation to his difficulty they can address him [illegible] stating that he [illegible] the great value [illegible] nature of the case and coming as it does from a man whom we all know to be [illegible]

We claim for our Patent Circular Saw the following advantages over all others

The shanks of the teeth are elastic, and exert a uniform distension in the sockets

The stability of the plate is in no way affected by inserting new sets of teeth

Each tooth, independently, may be adjusted to the cutting line

No rivits, keys, or other objectionable appliances are employed in connection with the teeth which are as simple in construction, and as easily used as a nut for a bolt

In short all the difficulties heretofore experienced in the use of movable teeth for saws, are fully met and obviated by this invention
